What's new in VR Stage Dancer:

June 6-18 JN: I'm going to be dancing on Thursdays for the rest of the summer series. Who should I contact to reserve a spot? Please send me an email at jennifer@gnk.org The CD14 has a set of 6 problems to solve - the first 5 are printed, but the 6th is piano-only. Problem 1 - Like a "Till Death Us Do Part": two participants perform walking and chatting routines with the ensemble. Problem 2 - Siege: two dancers rehearse male and female parts with a sketchy dance song played by a drummer on piano. Problem 3 - Gimmicky - a tricky problem that is best approached with good instrumentation. Whatever happens, please keep the melody vital. DJ Giovanni (available for both PS12 and CD14) suggests a shuffle or a waltz. But... you are dancing for a living and should be able to think of something better. Problem 4 - The only way is up - two musicians are chosen to play piano and guitar as the audience progress through this innovative dance theatre piece.

Problem 5 - Red Pencil - A performance by an audience member. Two members of the ensemble walk out into the audience and write on the audience's forehead on whiteboards. Problem 6 - Rehearsals of songs: a dancer rehearses songs live with the ensemble. The paper music for the song is played, plus instrumentation: a drummer or pianist is suggested. 2-5 pieces, 20mins.Panoramic Virtual Signage Network systems have entered the market as an attractive approach to achieving universal provision of audio-visual services over private IP networks. Such systems provide for the transmission of digital audio-visual content over the Internet from locations geographically remote from the locations of subscribers. A typical prior art Panoramic Virtual Signage Network system architecture, as disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 6,959,742, is exemplified in FIG. 1.
